The Collins Amateur Radio Club Is Seeking New Members

The Collins Amateur Radio Club (CARC) has been a stable group for over 30 years, residing on the Richardson campus of the Collins Radio / Rockwell Collins / Collins Aerospace corporate organization.

Our purpose is to further the following goals:

- Offer a focal point for Collins employees, retirees and others to advance their education and skills in amateur radio communications
- Develop interest in amateur radio through work with other organizations both within and external to the corporation
- Provide modern amateur radio communications facilities for use by CARC members
- Provide emergency communications as needed for the surrounding community
- Maintain radio relay capability to further the integration of broad communications capabilities locally and around the world
- Advance the state of the art through the exchange of information provided by the varied expertise of members
- Conduct club programs and activities to advance a general interest in amateur radio within the company and the community

While our club membership consists primarily of Collins employees and retirees, we offer associate memberships for others in the area, as well as memberships for interested dependents of members.

To check us out, just fill out the application on the opposite side of this form and either:

- Mail it to the Membership Chairman at the address on the application, or
- Bring it to one of our meetings. We meet every month, generally on the fourth Tuesday of the month. For the location, date and time, and directions to our monthly meetings, see our website at www.n5cxx.us, where you will also find more information about our Club and an archive of past newsletters.
